

This isometric drawing shows a mechanical component. It features a semi-circular base with a flat top surface. A rectangular block is positioned on top of this base. To the right of the rectangular block, there is a cylindrical feature that extends from the side of the base. Hidden edges are indicated with dashed lines.

